

Don't be puzzled by the organization of terms in the Situation box. I'm saying that without characters in a setting, there is no situation. I realize that in fictional terms, the characters experience situation in settings. That happens not to be what I'm talking about. Regarding Color, imagine a great big single word "Color" in shaded grey superimposed throughout the whole Exploration box.